The Great Book of Monster Legends

Stories and Myths from around the World

TEA ORSI

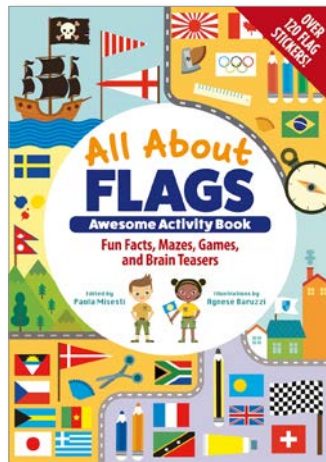

The Great Book of Monster Legends is a fun introduction to mythical creatures from all over the world! Readers are guided by two girls, Erin and Nora, who found their grandfather's old notebook in the attic. He was a monster expert, and the notebooks are filled with his research. But his research is incomplete, so they take up where he left off investigating monsters across the globe. They start in North America where the well-known Bigfoot has been sighted and then travel to Scotland to find the Loch Ness Monster, or Nessie.

The Blind Woodsman

One Man's Journey to Find His Purpose on the Other Side of Darkness

JOHN AND ANNI FURNISS

The Blind Woodsman is an inspiring and motivational autobiography about a man who finds true joy after struggling with depression, drug addiction, anxiety, financial despair and a failed suicide attempt at the age of 16. John Furniss, more famously known today as "The Blind Woodsman," along with his wife, inspiration and fellow artist Anni share their amazing story with the mission to help others. Despite being blind, John is now a highly skilled woodworker creating incredible pieces of art in complete darkness. Chapter one starts with how John and Anni met preceded by John sharing his experiences as a young teen and challenges along the way. Be inspired by the amazing images of John's work and many inspirational messages that will make you laugh and smile along the way. A story that will give hope and inspiration to those dealing with depression, addiction and the many anxiety driven stresses in our lives.

Making Bird-Friendly Birdhouses

Step-by-Step Instructions and Plans for 15 Specific Birds, Including Bluebirds, Wrens, Robins & Owls

MELVIN "BIRD MAN MEL" TOELLNER, MATT MAGUIRE

As popular as birdhouses are, many are designed with aesthetics in mind, rather than the bird's preferences and needs. Not so for the projects in Making Bird-Friendly Birdhouses. Lifelong birder Melvin "Bird Man Mel" Toellner and pro woodworker Matt Maguire walk you step-by-step through 15+ projects for safe birdhouses that birds find conducive to their natural nesting habitats. Birdhouses include residences for bluebirds, wrens, robins, chickadees, owls, and even a bat house!

Know Your Pollinators

TIM HARRIS

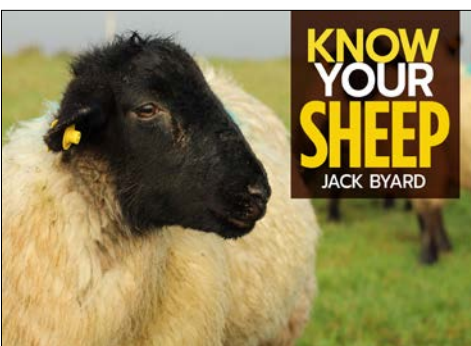

Did you know a honeybee visits about 50 to 100 flowers during each nectar-collection trip? You'll discover loads of interesting facts about 35 common pollinating insects – from ladybugs, moths, and beetles to bees, wasps, flies, and butterflies – including appearance, history and breeding, and details of how to attract them to your garden. From ladybugs whose larvae love to munch on herbs like coriander, fennel, and dill, to nocturnal moths who prefer a flower's scent to its color, this fun and fascinating pocket guide will turn both young and old into pollinator enthusiasts.

Gettysburg

Three Days That Saved the United States
 BEN NUSSBAUM

Regarded as the turning point of the American Civil War, Gettysburg commemorates the three-day battle that took place over 150 years ago. From the first shots fired on the morning of July 1, 1863 to Robert E. Lee's losing gamble known as Pickett's Charge on July 3 that resulted in thousands of Confederates being driven back by Union forces, Gettysburg is a snapshot of three of the most important days in US history. From cover to cover, discover rare photos, expertly written articles, and intriguing illustrations and maps detailing the political, military, and social conditions that thrust the sleepy town of Gettysburg forever into the pages of history books.

Dr. Jonathan Letourneau, medical director for the Army of the Potomac, poses with his staff. Letourneau (second from left) would see a large increase in the number of amputees.

Suffering After the Battle

As reported in a letter to the wounded that he had received from the battlefield and transported to field hospitals, Letourneau wrote to the Union Army's Surgeon General, Edwin V. Mott, about the conditions of the wounded soldiers.

With conventional and volunteer surgeons, without anesthesia, amputating limbs resulted of progress and changing and relieving symptoms.

"The ground and the air were filled with the stench of blood and the smell of the new ground on my feet."

MEDICAL ARTIFACTS

"The contrast of the medical officers was astonishing. Letourneau considered to be the official surgeon. Their attire was only better with the help of the Union Army. The Confederates were in a state of disrepair. Their uniforms were torn and their shoes were worn. They were barely able to walk and not many of them had working weapons and ammunition."

The Beatles

BEN NUSSBAUM

Celebrate our ongoing love affair with The Beatles, the four long-haired, oddly-dressed chaps who appeared on The Ed Sullivan Show on Sunday evening, February 9, 1964 with half of America watching. Editor Ben Nussbaum traces the beginnings of this first internationally famous boy band, revealing how John, Paul, George, and Ringo created the sonic sensation that changed the course of music history.

What If... Book of Alternative History

Revisit Major Milestones That Shaped World History and Discover the Outcome If They Had Happened Differently

JEFF GREENFIELD, CATHERINE CURZON

The course of history has taken many turns. What would the world be like if events had happened differently? What if JFK had never visited Dallas on November 22, 1963? What if Germany had won the First World War? How would life be different in America if the Southern states had beaten the North? What would a world without The Beatles sound like? Find out the potential answers to all these questions and many more in What If... Book of Alternative History.

Gone With The Wind

Trivia, Secrets, and Behind-the-Scenes Stories of America's Greatest Epic

BEN NUSSBAUM

Filled with classic photography of the film's famous cast, this new collector's edition Gone With the Wind is a celebration of one of the world's favorite Hollywood epics. Released in 1939, Gone With the Wind continues to sustain a place in American popular culture, and this volume offers readers an irresistible combination of history, glamour, and intrigue about the movie that was voted the most popular film in history by the American Film Institute. In contemporary dollars, the film stands firm as the most successful box-office hit in of all time—not even tumbled by such modern-day blockbusters as Avatar, Titanic, or Star Wars.

Identification for Your Cat

Be sure to have proper and secure identification on your cat. Even if your cat lives indoors all the time, there could be a moment when she slips out the door. Your cat needs a collar and identification tag, as well as an implanted microchip. Some animal shelters already microchip at the time of adoption, if not, it is a simple procedure that your veterinarian can do. Even if your cat is microchipped, she still needs an identification tag with your name and phone number in case you need to be reached. An identification tag is also good if your cat has an injury at the vet's office or a boarding facility overnight.

The type of collar you get is important. We recommend a "softie" or "breakaway" collar. These collars, if caught on something, will open and allow your cat to escape. This is important both inside and out. If your cat should get caught on a curtain rod or tree limb, for example. (See the Cats and Collars on page 183.)

Acclimating Your Cat

It is important to observe your cat closely out of her car carrier when you first bring her home. Does she bolt out of the carrier, attempt to back things out, or does she run under the nearest couch, bed, or doorway? A scared, hesitant cat will need more time to acclimate to a new environment. Be sure to be patient and give her lots of love and time to adjust. A hidden cat will still need reassurance, love, and attention but is going to introduce her new home in a shorter period of time. Remember, every cat is different.

Adoption Tip

To avoid making a hasty decision, leave the children at home when you make your first visit to the shelter. Forget the puppy or dog and know that he is a good fit for your family before he makes most fits.

When you decide which one to love for you? The more emotional, personalities of puppies in the same litter can be dramatically different. Most shelters do not allow visitors to enter puppy pens, but you can observe the litter. Look for a puppy that is trying to make eye contact, being social, and working for attention while getting closer to you. If possible, pick up a puppy, hold him so that you can look into his eyes, and evaluate his response.

If none of the puppies are shy when they see you, don't automatically rule them out. Visiting with them especially can give them a chance to show their personalities without the constraints of the structure. Commonly, puppies that seem outgoing or demanding while in the pen can turn out to be quite shy and nervous when meeting with you outside the pen. Puppies need to be brought out of their comfort zone so you know them about to new people and environments.

A puppy might try to lick your face, or he might fence and seem to get stiff, get frantic and pawy, or even retreat out of fear. If the dog does fence, does he recover in a few seconds and maybe start licking you, wagging his tail, and interacting with you? He shows fear and willing you do seem to help, he's demonstrating meeting another puppy.

If you want to get extra often more social, training, and socializing a puppy who may never see his "mommy" dog, the shyer pup may be your dog. If you want a rambunctious buddy who's ready to play at the drop of a hat, the bold pup of the litter might be for you.

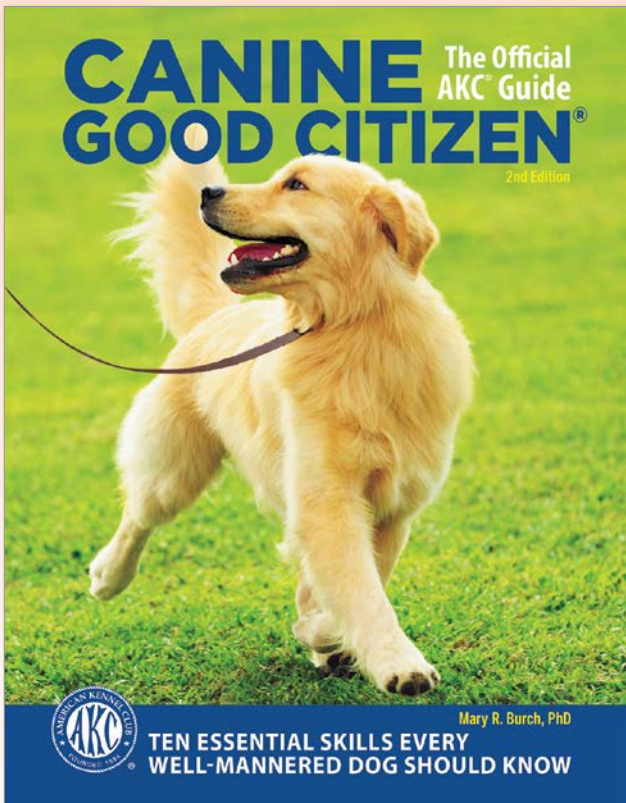

The bottom line is that choosing a puppy is a bit of a guessing game. If you have firm expectations about what you want or need in a canine companion, such as size restrictions, you should consider an adult dog.

CGC Test Item 5

WALKING THROUGH A CROWD

This test demonstrates that the dog can move about politely in pedestrian traffic and is under control in public places.

The dog and handler walk around and pass close to several (at least three) people. The evaluator can be counted as one of these people in the crowd. Children may act as members of the crowd; however, when children participate in the test, they must be instructed on their role and be supervised by an adult. Some of the members of the crowd may be standing still, and some should be moving around. This test simulates settings such as busy sidewalks or walking through a crowd at a public event.

If the CGC Test is being used as a prerequisite to therapy-dog testing and certification, most national therapy-dog groups require that at least one person in the crowd use some healthcare equipment such as walkers, canes, wheelchairs, and the like.

- In this test, the dog may show some interest in the strangers but should continue to walk with the handler without evidence of overexcitement, shyness, or noncompliance.
- The dog may show mild interest in members of the crowd. The dog may sniff a person in the crowd briefly but must move on promptly.
- The dog may not jump on people in the crowd or attempt to go to them.
- The dog should not be straining on the leash.
- The dog should not be trying to lunge behind the handler.

Our dogs deserve us and want to spend time with us. Every single one of these devoted, loving creatures deserves a rich life, full of opportunities to accompany their human companions on daily excursions and to special activities. We've already talked about the importance of teaching your dog to walk on a leash. Now it's time to take your canine companion out into the world—you've got places to go and people to meet! Chances are, many of the places you'll go with your dog involve crowds. Busy sidewalks, crowded elevators, the patio at a dog-friendly neighborhood bistro, and public events such as community fairs and dog shows are just some of many places where Test Item 5, Walking through a Crowd, is important.

In the CGC Test, your dog will be tested in a "crowd" of at least three people.

Important Reminders

You're going to teach your dog to mind his manners while in crowds, but during his training, remember that as a responsible owner, there are some things you can do to make others feel better about dog owners.

Using Elevators

When you get onto an elevator with your dog, step to the side if you can, putting the dog between you and the wall. If the elevator is partially full, so that you'll be stepping into the middle space in the front, give your large or medium-sized dog the cue to sit. You can pick up and hold your small dog if you feel it is appropriate to do so. Walking into a small space that is tightly packed with unfamiliar people is unusual and can be especially frightening for a tiny dog.
